

A photograph of a dark asphalt surface, likely a parking lot or driveway. The surface is marked with white painted lines. A vertical line runs down the center, and a horizontal line crosses it. A diagonal line runs from the top right towards the center. The number '100' is painted in white on the asphalt, positioned to the left of the vertical line and above the horizontal line. The asphalt has a rough, textured appearance with some small dark spots and a visible crack on the left side.

100